THE PROFESSOR AND THE BULL.

A Member of the Faculty of the Agriculture College Seriously Hurt.

Professor McLellan of the college of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Mesilla Park had his upper and lower jaws broken by a ferocious bull, and one ear almost entirely severed from his head. McLellan had gone into the bull pen when one of the blooded bulls, a ferocious animal, made for him and although it took the professor but a minute to jump the fence he was badly used up when picked up on the other side. As he can use neither jaw and his limbs are so badly bruised that he cannot write, the exact details of the accident will not be known until the jaws are free of bandages.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

Santa Fe's Literary Club Held a Highly Interesting Session Last Evening.

Judge W. H. Pope presided at last evening's meeting of the Fortnightly which was held at the Presbyterian Manse. After the transaction of several business matters including the election of three candidates to membership, the interesting musical and literary program was taken up. Mrs. Moore played two selections upon the piano, her technique and expression being faultless. "Is Longfellow or Whittier, the most distinctively American Poet?" was the subject of two fifteen minutes papers. Miss Robertson taking the part of Longfellow, her charming essay giving evidence of literary talent and research and being replete with typical selections from the works of the poet; while E. A. Playter, with forceful logic and the skill of a trained debater, presented succinctly the claims of Whittier to the honor of being the most distinctively American poet. Mrs. Marsh read Longfellow's "Building of the Ship," a poem foremost in American anthology, while Mr. Playter read several of Whittier's choicest selections. A general discussion followed although the question which of the two is the more typical American poet was left undecided, at least, as far as the Fortnightly is concerned. The session proved to be a most interesting one. The next meeting will be held two weeks hence at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bartlett on the south side.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE.

How the Union Workmen of Albuquerque Will Get Even.

About a week or two ago the merchants and employers of Albuquerque formed an association to prevent strikes and lockouts thus to check the tyranny that several of the labor unions of the Duke City attempted to exert. As a counter move, the union employees of the railway shops have decided to start a co-operative store where groceries and other supplies are to be furnished railroad men at cost, plus the proportionate cost of handling the merchandise.
